The Scarcely an hour of the twelve days has The session falled to accomplish the object for which it was called, the rati object for which it was called, the ratification of the treaty with the republic of Santo Domingo, whereby America was to take over the customs houses of the republic and from the revenues discharge
the running expenses of the government and pay off the foreign indebtedness, an arrangement which could have been but beneficial to the people of Santo Domingo, but which would have committed this country to the policy of guarateeing every claim which a foreign government should set up in the future against one of the Central or South American republics.

The President was easer for the rati-

Speech by Daniel. Speech by Daniel.

There was practically no discussion of the Dominician question in executive session of the Senate to-day. Before the doors were closed an effort was made to secure the adoption of a resolution offered by Senator Teller requesting the President to send to the Senate correspondence leading up to the negotiation of the Dominician treaty.

During discussion of the resolution Mr. Teller said:

"I have heard on the street one reason advanced why we should immediately ratify this treaty. That is a foreign government—Germany—is likely to invade Santo Domingo."

and said that so simple and courteous
a request should be adopted. Continuing, he said:
"I believe the President is a manly man, a bold man, a man who does notfear to do anything he feels that it is right to do. The adoption of so respectful a request would not put the President in the false position some senators appear to fear."
Mr. Daniel insisted that the information asked for was needed.

Mr. Daniel insisted that the information asked for was needed.

Replying, Mr. Lodge said he never had known of but one case where correspondence in relation to the negotiation of a treaty had been requested of the President, and in that case the information was sent after the ratification of the treaty. "If the resolution were adopted," said Mn. Lodge, "and the President should refuse, as I believe he

Mr. Teller said that President Washington, without any precedent before before him, had been brave enough to refuse information asked for by the House. 'I think we have never had a President who was outrageous enough to refuse improper information, nor a Senate mean enough to criticise the final rally will be held to-morrow evering, at the old Bljou at $1:0. The physical need for more room is becoming too apparent in the judgment of almost all for agreement. Many who have doubted the financial expediency of expansion have, from the need of greater era alone, been led to change their minds.

The meeting at the old Bljou Theatre will be addressed by Colonel Wm. H. Palmer, president of the City Bank, and Messrs, C. V. Meredith and E. A. Catlin, Mayor McCarthy will preside and the occasion promises to be one of great interest. It was purposed to hold the meetine at the Belviere Hall, but the indications were that the crowd would need more room, and therefore the old Bljou was secured through the courtesy of Mr. C. T. McKee. Seats have been provided on the stage for the members of the Joint Committee on Progress and every member is urged to be present. Comfortable chairs bave ben put in the body of the house.

The special significance of this meeting is in the fact that the Council Committee an Annexation meets Tuesday evening for consideration of the question of annexation. As this will be the public who desire to be heard will have an opportunity to appear there.

Every citizen of Richmond and resident of the county is invited and an enthusiastic meeting is a susured.

Following is a telegram from Colonel M. V. Richards, so well known to Richmond people and in the midst of every movement for progress, in reply to an invitation to attend the meeting to morrow night. The Mayor Speaks.

Mayor Carlton McCarthy was called on and responded, prefacing the speech by the statement that unless objection was made he proposes to answer all the arguments that had been made at Barton arguments that had been made at Barton Heights Friday night. He declared that Mr. Wendenburg had made a speech which could have answered in every statement had time remained, for some one to do it. He stated that Mr. Wendenburg's speech was full of fallacies and sophistry and errors from because it is every and charged that some of the statements he made were hurful

to Richmond and were false.
"What right," said he, "have you morally or any other way to say to the city of Richmond for purely solfish reasons that this city shall not grow? It is as necessary and as inevitable as sunrise and sunset."

Addressing himself to the city finances,
Mayor McCarthy stated that the city's Addressing himself to the city linances, Mayor McCarthy stated that the city's debt is about seven millions, which he characterized as a mere bagatelle. The city has just adopted a budget for the ensuing years, carrying two and a quarter millions, and the city has half a million in cash in the bank. This money had been related for everent revenues, and not by in cash in the bank. This money had been raised in current revenues, and not by bend issue. The city had issued no bonds in twelve years, and was reducing its bonded debt constantly. The speaker told the people of Chestnut Hill that the privilege of the public schools would alone more than compensate them for what they would pay. He declared that he could soil either the water or gas plant of the city for seven millions in ten days.

Value of Land.

Value of Land.

The Mayor then proceeded to show that the causes of the variation of the value of lands. The value of land, said he, is measured by the number of people who pass it every day. The value of Rich-mond lands was due to the uncounted mond lands was due to the uncounted millions expended in urban improvements and in its business. In one hundred years Richmond has not spent eighteen per cent. of its assessed value, yet they offer you twelve per cent, of the value of yours in improvements immediately, and yours in improvements immediately, and the peeple of Richmond must go down in their pockets and pay the interest on the bonds of the territory annexed, if any were issued, and also provide a sinking fund to extinguish the principal. The city has seventy millions of values, all of which was pledged to pay the bonded

ing fund to extinguish the principal. The city has seventy millions of values, all of which was pledged to pay the bonded doi! if necessary.

Answering questions asked by Mr. Dunn and others, the Mayor stated that the people of the territory to be annexed would become citizens and residents of the wards to which the territory was added and that they would have representatives in the Council, and if they could not send los-rollers to the council to look out for their interests it was their own fault. The difference in taxation now and under the proposed annexation would be but bo cents on the $100 and for this they would get water, fire and police protection, schools and lights. Some questioner asked if the people of the annexed territory would not have to pay for what they do not now pay, and the mayor did not understand the query. Somebody suggested salaries of city officers, whereupon, the Mayor retorted that Richmond did not pay much until he got the job and worked it up. Discussing the topographical difficulties presented, on which several questioners had hung adverse arguments, the Mayor declared that he remembered when the present city had guilles longer and deeper than that separating Chestmut Hill and larton Holghts from Richmond. One of these extended from Pourth to Thirteenth Street. Richmond was made of guilles and hills. He declared that a creek was a blessing and not a curse and asked what would the city do without one. God is the architect of the inhverse and its landscape gardner; let its not criticise him for his landswark said the Mayor. The Mayor declared of the natural difficulties in the thought with those making the objections.

Liquozone is a product which, in the past two years has sprung into world-wide use in the treatment of germ discusses. It is now used by the sick of nine nations; by physicians and hospitals everywhere. It is daily used in millions of homes in hypersele.

The greatest value of Liquozone lies in the fact that it kills germs in the body without killing the tissues, too, And no man knows another way to do it. Any drug that kills germs is a poison, and it cannot be taken internally. For that reason, medicine is almost helpless in any germ disease.

Mr. F. F. Rennie spoke briefly and in a frank and forceful strain against the annexation along the line advocated by the Progress Committee, but expressed his interest in the city and his desire to advance its interests while conserving those of Chestnut Hill.

Mr. St. John Coalter, chairman of the meeting, vacated the chair and discussed the question from the standpoint of antiannexation. He attacked the various arguments advanced favoring it finally declaring that the only argument Richmond could offer was that she desired to be able to say that she had 115,000 population instead of 85,000. He combatted the financial arguments of the Mayor and those with reference to the benefits to be derived from annexation by the people annexed.

Mr. Charles B. Cooke, president of the Civic Improvement League, was the last speaker, discussing in some detail the desires of the Joint Committee of Progress.

Rev. Dr. J. B. Hutson:

"Annexation is as sure to come as growth continues, and Richmond is wasting time and missing opportunity, and will suffer loss by unnecessary delay."

Be. A. Catiln:

"The apparent slowness of growth of Richmond, as shown by the census, would naturally deter prospective settlers from the standard of the Richmond as shown by the census, would naturally deter prospective settlers from the standard of the Richmond. Geo. Wayne Anderson:
"I answer your question with a general affirmative. Our workingmen and people of modest means are entitled to homes at moderate cost in healthy locations with city conveniences and protection. The territory suggested will afford this and will be within a few minutes' travel of the heart of the city. It is exactly what we need, and since our prosperity depends upon developing and increasing our manufactures, we will need it more and more. We should remember that annexation can hardly be successful oftener than once perhaps in every ten years. We should, therefore, propose broad lines that can be justified by reason and that will enable us to build for the future as well as for the present."

Remarkable Curative Properties of a Remedy for indigestion and Stomach Weakness.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, a preparation for the cure of dyspepsia and the various forms of indigestion and stomach trouble, owes its great success as a cure for these troubles to the fact that it is prepared for disease and weakness of the stomach and digestive organs only, and is not recommended or advised for any other disease.

It is not a cure-all, but for any stomach trouble it is undoubtedly the safest, most sensible remedy that can be advised with the prospect of a permanent cure. It is prepared in tablet form, pleasant to taste, composed of vegetable and fruit essences, pure pepsin and Golden Seal, every one of which act effectively in digesting the food eaten, thereby resting and invigorating the weak stomach; rest is nature's cure for any disease, but you cannot rest the stomach unless you put into it something that will do its work or absist in the digestion of food.
